

A soft x-ray spectrometer is located in SXR and can be used to measure the single-shot x-ray spectrum from 600 eV to 2 keV. Figure below shows two typical SXR spectra around 1.2 keV at the nominal machine condition (when electron bunch is under-compressed in BC2).

